

Letter of Interest for Project Evaluator

Introduction of Nepal Disabled Human Rights Center (DHRC- Nepal)

In Nepal 1.94% of total population has some kind of disability. Most of them have low socio-economic status. The community of People with Disabilities (PWDs) has still been marginalized due to the lack of awareness and so provoked cooperative thoughts of society towards them. It has been a long time; some human rights activists from disability group have begun disability movement for the promotion and protection of human rights of PWDs but the government is still lagging to respond their demands properly. However, the government ratified UNCRPD to make a promise for the implementation of existing policies, rules and acts regarding human rights of PWDs and creating a disability friendly socio-cultural environment for all PWDs. The foundation of Disabled Human Rights Centre (DHRC-Nepal) is for the cooperation with the government to implement all disabled human rights related policies and acts. So, DHRC-Nepal is devoted to create a developed and inclusive nation for all who are still facing prejudice of being equal to enjoy their rights.

Disabled Human Rights Centre (DHRC-Nepal) was established in 2000 AD by a group of young disabled people from different corners realizing the real situation of PWDs in Nepal. They themselves are having some kinds of disability due to which they suffered in the context of obtaining education and employment opportunities. Since its beginning, DHRC has been persistently working towards achieving its mission through a wide range of activities.

Project Background

Disabled Human Rights Center (DHRC) has implemented a 3 year project named "Alleviating Poverty among Disable People in Nepal" from April 2014 to March 2017. This project is funded by UK Aid under its Global Poverty Alleviation Fund (GPAF) in collaboration with Disability and Development Partners (DDP), UK and four local partners namely, RECED (Tanahun), FHRD (Dang), DEC (Surkhet) and BRCD (Bardiya). The project was designed in a very collaborative and participative way by all partners, based on our shared working experience, and the real stories and felt experience of PwDs, including those who are facing extreme poverty. This lead to our hypothesis - or theory of change - that we believe changes in disabled people's lives and situations are best achieved by PwDs themselves, through their organisations (DPOs, self help and other groups) having ownership and involvement in the means of achieving change.

DHRC is seeking a suitable candidate to fill the vacant post.
